

BIO

Assoc. Prof. Paul Higgins

Dr Paul Higgins is an Associate professor in the Department of Public Policy, City University of Hong Kong. He currently conducts teaching in the areas of human resource management, professions and research methods. Paul's primary research interests cover ageing, pedagogy, professions and well-being. He has published extensively in a range of top-tier journals covering such disciplines as educational psychology, gerontology, geography, public administration, political science and urban studies. Paul is currently preparing a number of books on quality of life, happiness and human resource management and regularly transfers his knowledge to business and social organizations.